To Whom It May Concern,

I recently closed on my Condo in S.W. Las Vegas. My realtor was Jeff Howard with Keller Williams. I have to say, he by far, was the best realtor I've ever had. He basically held my hand throughout the whole process. I immediately felt confident with his experience and knowledge in our first encounter and my instincts were correct. He never let me down. I had previously had a bad experience with another realtor prior to Jeff; I dropped her due to neglect and I'm so glad I did. Jeff continually went above and beyond throughout the whole process. I had prequalified for my home loan and he helped me decide on what price range was best and most comfortable for me. Even after the home closed he loaned me his ladder, as well as reprogrammed my garage door opener.

Jeff was referred to me by a co-worker of my sister's. So to me, word of mouth is truly the best source of advertisement. I've spoken highly of my realtor throughout the whole process, and will continue to recommend him to friends, coworkers and physicians.
